FESTIVITIES AT BROAD RIPPLE LAST NIGHT ENJOYED BY MANY.

The Boathouse Brilliantly Illuminated and Decorated for the Occasion-Refreshments and Dancing.

Neptune, Calliope and Terpsichore, the great trio of deities who preside over water, music and the dance, lent their best efforts last night to make the opening of the season of 1900 of the Indianapolis Aquatic Club auspicious and enjoyable. The crispness of the air served to increase rather than diminish the attendance. Nearly three hundred people, a large part of whom were young and the remainder of an age befitting chaperons, availed themselves of the invitations issued by the club and boarded Broad Ripple cars early in the evening so as to miss none of the festivities. Many of the electric cars running into Broad Ripple Park were ornamented in honor of the occasion with electric lights of green and white, the club colors, and one car bore a beautiful shield of red, white and blue incandescent lights. At the top of the landing, along the stairway leading down to the boathouse of the Aquatic Club and on the boathouse itself were enough lights to illuminate the river for a quarter of a mile in either direction and attract the attention of passengers on the electric cars long before the park was reached.

The boathouse looks almost new as a result of many improvements which have been made upon it since last summer. Down stairs there is a larger space for storing canoes, while on the upper floor, or "deck," the cabin and locker room betray evident signs of changes for the better. A large reception committee was appointed to look after the comfort and enjoyment of guests last night. A part of the committee stationed itself in various por-Action for Injunction Brought in the tions of the boathouse, while the remainder were to be found in the spacious dancing pavilion. The large cabin on the deck of the boathouse was elaborately ornamented with hangings of natural green in the shape of trailing vines, while cut flowers on all sides assailed the eye with their beauty and the nose with their delicious fragrance. On the "fo'c's'le" a dusky attendant clad in white dispensed ice-cold lemonade to the few who cared for such a beverage on a chilly night. After enjoying the charms of the boathouse most of the guests wended their way to the dancing pavilion. A few young people, however, found the darkness and the picturesqueness of the upper deck on the water side more to their liking and lingered to a late hour talking and idly watching the small craft darting up and down the placid river. At the dancing pavilion all was light and gayety. The dancers entered into their favorite pastime with added zest furnished by the bracing air, while the chaperones found pleasure in sitting along the sides of the open pavilion watching the young folks enjoy themselves The pavilion was hung on three sides with streamers of white and green, and Chinese lanterns strung in attractive form supplied a variety of color as well as helping out the illumination. Music for dancing was furnished by Smith's orchestra. The reception committee was composed of H. T. Hearsey, president of the Aquatic Club; Harry Hammond, vice president; Allen Hendricks, chairman of the house committee: P. A. Hines, treasurer: Miles Burford, secretary; Dr. Maurice H. Raschig, member of the house committee; Pearl Havelick; Thomas J. Carter, chairman of the entertainment committee; Bruce Maxwell, Charley Maxwell, Russ Eckman and Captain Robson, "skipper" of the house boat. The club is in a very flourishing condition, according to a statement made by President Hearsey, who said the full limit

A long list of aquatic entertainments is under preparation, he said. The season will not actually begin until about the last of July, when the first regatta will be given. A "stag" smoker will take place on the boathouse about the middle of July. The present directorate of the club is made up of Gavin L. GIRL'S TERRIBLE INJURIES.

Caught in an Elevator.

Ethel Money, employed at the Bower-Love cotton mill, was probably fatally injured yesterday about noon by being caught between a moving elevator and a brick wall. It was during lunch hour and she, with another girl, was eating lunch on the elevator. Someone on an upper floor started the elevator upward. The injured girl started to jump from the car, but was held by her companion. The elevator continued its way slowly upward and during the struggle between Miss Money and her companion her foot slipped down by the side of the platform. When she regained her balance sufficiently to pull her foot out archway over the entrance. She was bruised and the awful strain tore the skin but it was at least thirty minutes before it could be done. The floor of the elevator had to be chopped to pieces. She was taken to the City Hospital after temporary dressings had been applied by Dr. Wiggins, of the City Dispensary, and it was there thought the injuries might prove fatal. She is about fifteen years of age and lives at 412 Haugh street.

OBJECT TO GAS METERS

MANY PEOPLE SIGNING PETITION TO BE PRESENTED TO COUNCIL.

Demonstration Against Meters to Be Held at Tomlinson Hall To-Morrow Night.

There was to have been a meeting at the Denison yesterday afternoon between John R. Pearson, assistant to the president of the Indianapolis Gas Company, and Bement Lyman, secretary and general manager of the Consumers' Gas Company, to settle upon a meter gas rate to be set out in the ordinance that will be presented to the Council to-morrow night, but it did not materialize and it was postponed until tomorrow morning. Mr. Pearson said last night he was unable to say what the rate will be; but asserted that 25 or 30 cents a thousand will catch the figures. This, he said, was very reasonable when it is taken into consideration that the companies will furnish meters without cost to consumers He said that if meters are introduced new burners will be required so as to give a better combustion and that the change can be made at a nominal cost. For cook stoves he said burners will be provided for each hole and oven and that the entire change can be made for 60 or 70 cents. The new burners for heaters he says will be comparatively nothing. The cost of gas at meter rates, he asserts, with these changes, providing moderate economy is exercised. will be equal to monthly rates.

Early yesterday morning the gas talk became so strong that Lewis Haag had one hundred petitions printed in the form of a remonstrance against the Council passing the ordinance and they were scattered broadcast through the business portion of the city. Only business and representative Haag, many of them signed on both sides. He estimated that they will average at least twenty-five names to the page, which is in the neighborhood of 1,500 signatures. The petitions were made returnable to-morrow night and those still out are expected to be presented with an equal number of names. In addition to these, others will be printed to-morrow for distribution. The canvassers report that 95 to 98 per cent, of those asked to sign consented and did it with enthusiasm.

As to the supply of gas by meter a man who has been employed by one of the companies for many years, but declines to let his name be used because of his business relation, gave some figures as to the cost, He used for example a four-holed No. cook stove. He said the mixers are eight sixty-fourths of an inch in diameter and are made to furnish eighty feet of gas an hour at a four ounce pressure with the full force turned on. Averaging twelve hours a day, going at the full pressure, 960 feet would be consumed. At a rate of 30 cents a thousand, the maximum rate proposed by the companies, it will cost 30 cents a day to supply a cook stove, providing it is used but twelve hours and the gas is turned on at full pressure, or $3 a month. These figures, he asserts, is the result of actual calculation. In regard to the new burners he said the cost cannot possibly be reduced more than 20 per cent. A mass meeting will be held to-morrow evening at 7:30, its prime purpose being to make a demonstration while the Council is in session in order that the executive body will more fully appreciate the sentiment Controller Johnson said yesterday that the ordinance will not pass.

G. G. Swain, former proprietor of the Swain-Ertel laundry, had an experience with using gas three years ago which shows the difference between meter and monthly rates. At the time of going into the business he paid $40 a month for the use of gas. It was raised to $50 a month, and finally the company insisted on putting in meter. At 8 cents a thousand the first month's bill amounted to between $75 and $80. At that time 8 cents was understood to be a cut rate, the regular price being 10 cents a thousand, and the price by meter almost doubled his gas bill. The same rate continued until he disposed of the business to another firm.

Indianapolis, Ind., May 26, 1900.

I endured untold suffering for four weeks with appendicitis. I had no appetite to eat and could not sleep at night. My physician told me that medicine would not do me any good, and that I would have to undergo an operation. I consulted other leading physicians and was told by them that an operation was the only chance for me. I took the advice of a friend and began taking treatment from Prof. George. I was wonderfully relieved after the first few treatments, and after taking eleven treatments I went to work feeling all right. I have now been at work two weeks and am feeling stronger every day. I will gladly answer any letters concerning my case. Yours truly.

I have been suffering with stomach trouble, constipation and ulcer of the rectum for five years. Since that time I have been treated by a number of physicians, and have also been treated by the use of electric batteries. All the above remedies used seemed but an experiment to me, and I was getting worse all the time. I could have no action of my bowels without the use of medicine. I began taking treatment from Prof. George. After the first week's treatment my howels were regular, and all this without use George. After the first week's treatment my bowels were regular, and all this without use of a drop of medicine. I have now taken three weeks' treatment and my ailments seemed to pass away like magic. I am now a new man. I did not have much faith in Prof. George's treatment at first, but now I have a plenty and am taking the lecture course. Yours truly,

W. G. WILLARD.

Number of Cases Disposed of in Room 2, Superior Court-Injunction Suit Filed.

Few persons know the immense amount of work accomplished by a judge in a term of court. To pass through the corridors of the courthouse and glance into the various courtrooms one is impressed with the apparent languor on the inside. Perhaps the judge has deserted the bench or is listening to what seems to the observer a wearisome harangue of an attorney. But the scene is misleading. Two or three attorneys may represent a litigation of vital importance, wrestling with a point in law on which the judge's mental capacity is taxed to its utmost to give a proper construction. Or, if the judge is not on the bench, in all probability he is in his private room intently dissecting voluminous manuscript or digesting the contents of a pile of law books to assist him in making a proper decision. So court goes on, day after day, to the outsider a monotonous routine, but to the legal profession a ponderous piece of machinery ever developing new technicalities that re-

Just how much the court accomplishes in a full term was summed up by Sam Shank, clerk, and George Bone, bailiff, in Judge Leathers's court yesterday. The total numof cases disposed of since Sept. 5, 1899, is 691, and 382 remain upon the docket to be tried. During the same time 546 new cases have been filed. Divorce suits lead, 202 having been disposed of, nearly one hundred more than any other class of cases tried during the year. In these suits 143 decrees were granted to wives, forty-six to husbands, three were denied wives and ten were denied husbands. Damage suits come lars, which will show you how $50 invested now will be worth $200 or more within six months.
